Satisfactory Academic Progress Appeal Form

Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) Overview
Federal regulations require that all students meet minimum qualitative (grades) and minimum quantitative (hours earned) standards of satisfactory academic progress (SAP) toward achieving a degree. SAP progress is measured at the end of each term by evaluating cumulative grade point average, credits earned in relation to attempted hours, and length of the academic program. These standards apply to your entire academic history, even if you were not a recipient of federal aid. The SAP standards are outlined under consumer information on the website, and in the Financial Aid Handbook available from www.cn.edu. Students whose aid has been cancelled may continue to enroll at Carson-Newman without financial aid, if they are eligible to re-enroll according to University policies, and have made payment arrangements with Student Accounts.

SAP Appeal Process
If extenuating circumstances precluded you from meeting the standards, you may file an appeal. Documentation must be provided to substantiate the reason of appeal. Unsigned Appeals, appeals without supporting documentation, and/or appeals not submitted by the deadline CANNOT be accepted. Failure to read notifications and information does not negate your responsibility.

- I am also submitting my typed & signed personal statement that is true and correct to the best of my knowledge, and addresses the three following questions:

Step 3: Appeals Committee Review
Committee Reviews will occur approximately one week after deadline. If your appeal is not properly substantiated or is late, you will be sent a notification denying your appeal, and you will be responsible for your enrollment fees without financial aid. If your appeal is properly substantiated and approved, you will be sent an Academic Progress Plan (APP), requiring you to meet with your Advisor. This plan must be signed by you and your advisor and submitted to the Financial Aid Office by deadline indicated within the plan. Financial aid will not be reinstated until the APP is received.
