Student teachers at Carson-Newman complete two work samples to demonstrate their impact on P-12 student achievement. The work sample is a unit of instruction with pre- and post-assessment data collected and analyzed for each P-12 student in the candidate’s classroom, as well as for the overall class. The data provided show the ratings of the faculty members evaluating the student work samples, compared to the rubric for the work sample.

Praxis pass rates for the institution for a three-year period are 100% in all licensure programs leading to fully licensed teachers at graduation.

In the field, graduates of Carson-Newman have shown to be highly effective teachers based on TN state data taken from TCAP scores in 2013.

Employers, who are surveyed every year to obtain their ratings of graduates on the indicators below, seek Carson-Newman graduates. The following data are reported in 2014 on a sample of more than 100 teachers, using a five-point scale.
